Fingal County Council is fully committed to delivering services to communities in the best and most efficient way possible in order 'to be the place of choice to live, work, visit and do business in Ireland'.

Fingal is the third most populous Local Authority area in Ireland and, with a population increase of 77% between 1996 and 2011 is the fastest growing, most diverse and youngest population in the country.

Fingal's significant economic advantages include Dublin Airport, fast access to Dublin Port, rail, road, power and telecommunications infrastructure. Proximity to Dublin city centre and the location on the Dublin-Belfast economic corridor, ensure continued future growth. Dublin Airport is nationally significant due to its employment base, passenger throughput and airfreight services and it remains the primary economic hub in Fingal.

The area is defined by the diversity of its landscape and settlement patterns with rural, urban and suburban locations all rolled into one county. Fingal has 88 km of coastline stretching from Sutton to Balbriggan and has three protected estuaries, salt marsh habitats and thirteen major beaches.

Fingal has a rich cultural heritage and has developed some of the major assets of the county as visitor attractions including Ardgillan Castle, Newbridge House, Malahide Castle & Gardens and Skerries Mills. Fingal County Council has further major plans for the development of heritage, arts and culture within the county. Community participation through residents associations, tidy towns groups and community groups are all an invaluable part of the development of sustainable communities within Fingal.
